

CENTER FOR INFORMATION INTEGRITY RESEARCH

B-64 (FF), Gulmohar Park, New Delhi-110 049, India
E-mail: ymandke@unitechsys.com; vijaymandke@satyam.net.in

MAKING A CASE FOR I*I IN HEALTHCARE EXAMPLE – 2

References

1. Bogner M. S. (Ed.) (1994), Human Error in Medicine, Lawrence Erlbaum Associates, Publishers, Hillsdale, NJ.
2. Cook, R.I., Woods, D. D. and Howie, M.B. (1990), The natural history of introducing new information technology into a dynamic high-risk environment, Proceedings of the 34th Annual Human Factors Society Meeting, pp: 429-433.
3. Cook, R.I., and Woods, D.D. (1994), Operating at the sharp end: The Complexity of Human Error, In Book “Human Error in Medicine”, Bogner M. S. (Ed.), Lawrence Erlbaum Associates, Publishers, Hillsdale, NJ, pp: 255-310.
4. Gaba, D. M. (1994), Human Error in Dynamic Medical Domains, In Book “Human Error in Medicine”, Bogner M. S. (Ed.), Lawrence Erlbaum Associates, Publishers, Hillsdale, NJ, pp: 197-224.
5. Mandke, V.V. (2003), *Making A Case for I*I in Healthcare Example – 1*, White Paper, Center For Information Integrity Research, New Delhi, India.
6. Mandke, V.V. (2003), Elements of Information Integrity, White Paper, Center For Information Integrity Research, New Delhi, India.
7. Mandke Vijay V., Nayar M.K., and Malik Kamna (2001), Information Envelope and its Information Integrity Implications: For a complex, changing environment, modeling a generic business process as an integral to a closed loop information and control system characterized by uncertainty, Proceedings of the 2001 Conference on Information Quality, Edited by Elizabeth M. Pierce and Raissa Katz-Hass, MIT, Cambridge, Massachusetts, USA.
8. Mandke Vijay V., Bariff M., and Nayar Madhavan K. (2002), Demand for Information Integrity in Healthcare Management”, Proceedings of Second International Conference on the Management of Healthcare and Medical Technology On “The Hospital of the Future” at Stuart Graduate School of Business, IIT, Chicago, Illinois, USA, July 28-30, 2002.
9. Moray Naville (1994), Error Reduction as a Systems Problem, In Book “Human Error in Medicine”, Bogner M. S. (Ed.), Lawrence Erlbaum Associates, Publishers, Hillsdale, NJ, pp: 67-91.